A welcome mat for Washington

Lighted 'torch' greets travellers crossing into West Sac from I Street Bridge

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A torch-like, lighted monument is now in place to mark the riverfront entrance to the "Washington" neighborhood of West Sacramento from the I Street Bridge.

"We do need to be concerned with our front yard," City Councilman Mark Johannessen told the News-Ledger yesterday. "The monument will create a nice entry point, and it's a piece of public art as well. It creates a sense of 'you have arrived.'"

Johannessen said city leaders believe that individual parts of the city should have their own visual identities.

"We've talked about having that on West Capitol as well — having some kind of signage that articulates the fact that it's a civic center. How do you articulate a feeling that you're in a particular district? We've talked about, for Washington, having something like the gaslights of the 'Gaslight District' of San Diego."

Johannessen was among those on hand to dedicate the new "Washington Gateway" monument last week. The monument has LED lights around its base for night-time visibility, and also has lights for the inside of the sculpted, flame-shaped top.

"I think first impressions are important," he said.

"You want to have a way to invite people to come into your town."

Johannessen said the same sentiment has come up in talks with restaurant owners in the region: they felt that a need to define a Proposed farmers' market would offer up wares weekly at a site on West Capitol Ave.

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce hopes to have a weekly "farmers' market" in place by next summer, somewhere along West Capitol Avenue.

"The farmers' market is a subcommittee of what we call 'Project Pride,' a collaboration between the city and the chamber," said Denise Seals, chamber director. "We've been meeting on it about 18 months. We have had representatives from Yolo County, local businesses and a couple of citizens. We are meeting with the goal of opening up a certified farmers' market along West Capitol Avenue next summer, somewhere in the city's evolving city core."

A 'certified' farmers' market, she said, would feature goods sold directly by growers. An exact location hasn't been pinned down.

"We've been consulting with (farmers') market managers from both Davis and Sacramento," she added. "My guess is it would be on Tuesdays, Wednesdays or Thursdays. We're hoping to have a Yolo County focus with the farmers. We have several West Sacramento farmers you'll see — Vierra Farms and Peabody Farms, and several farms in the Southport area that are busy with farmers' markets all over."

For news of the local farmers' market, or to get involved, visit the chamber's website, said Seals. The site is located at www.west-sacramento-chamber.com.

New school board president calls for 'town hall' session

The school board of the Washington Unified School District has voted in member David Westin as board president for the next year, and member Sandra Vargas as board vice president.

Westin told the News-Ledger that one of his first requests was to schedule a "town hall" meeting to talk about the search for a new superintendent. Current superintendent Steven Lawrence leaves next month.

The "town hall" meeting is scheduled for 9 a.m. to noon on Sat., Jan. 9, said Westin. The location remains to be determined.

"We're going to have a town hall meeting to go over the process and selection criteria for the interim superintendent and long-term superintendent," Westin said. "In addition, we're going to discuss the top five priorities for the coming year."

Westin said members of the public can reach him with their concerns at 376-0880 or dave@arkadmanagement.com.

The board did not opt to change the compensation schedule for its members, or to change its regular meeting schedule of the second and fourth Thursday of each month.

Group scrambles to replace food

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Volunteers for the West Sacramento Christmas Basket project are trying to replenish their stocks of donated food before their planned distribution to the needy next week. Apparently, some of the supplies collected for the organization were accidentally routed to another local charity.

"It was last week when we found out," said Helena Helms, chairperson for the organization. "One of our workers went to pick up some (donated) food and found it had already been given to somebody who said they were with us."

Apparently, that person was working for another charity project, which Helms declined to name. The individual went to a local fire station to pick up some goods collected for his or her own group.

"The firefighter asked who they were, and they said they were with the Christmas Basket Project, so the firefighters gave them our food," said Helms. "It was another group in town, and they were trying to do something good, too. We do need to get that food replaced. The firefighters feel terrible."

Helms said her group has contacted the other charity group, but nothing could be worked out to replace the food.

"We're not going to make a big deal out of it, but karma is something else," commented Helms.

Meanwhile, she said, the Christmas Basket Project has received signups from 608 local families (over 2,000 people) who expect to receive baskets with turkeys or chicken and other holiday goodies for a home holiday meal.

"We need canned goods, fruit, vegetables, soup, cash and toys," she said. "It doesn't have to be a big toy — just a new toy."

Remembering Alma Soost

Note: Longtime West Sacramento resident and local educator Alma Soost passed away last week at the age of 93. Alma was quite a lady, with an indomitable spirit and a passion for educating the children of West Sacramento, which was her life's work for more than 40 years. The following article, which I wrote about her back in the summer of 1998, is reprinted below in her memory.

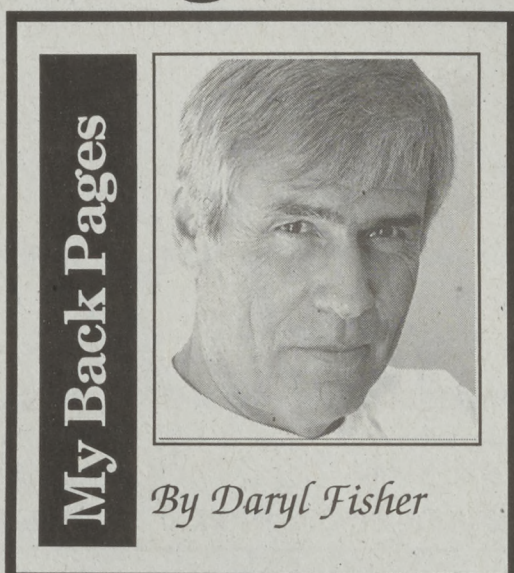

Alma Bernabovi was one of seven surviving children born to Angelo and Marie Bernabovi. "My father came to America in 1906," recalled Alma. "He worked as a lumberjack and a farmer until he earned enough money to go back to Italy and get my mother. Then, in 1910, my parents settled in Broderick, where my father grew fruits and vegetables and peddled them locally and in Sacramento. For years and years, he had the same loyal customers, and I can still remember the wagon and horse he used to make his rounds. Later on, he had an old Model-T pickup truck with big racks to hold all the boxes of fruits and vegetables. And I still have the scale he used to weigh everything."

Growing up in Broderick was a fun time for Alma and those years left her with many fond memories.

"We lived on old B Street," said Alma, "which at that time was part of a little Italian neighborhood, and everyone knew everyone else. We all spoke Italian at home and we formed friendships that in many cases have lasted a lifetime. There was no traffic to speak of and we would all play games in the streets or in the open fields which were all around us. And even when I was very young, I wanted to be a teacher, and I can remember how I used to gather up some of my friends and take them to an old rundown cabin that was on our property so I could teach them. If I remember correctly, Marino Pierucci was one of my best students."

During the Great Depression, times were hard for everyone, even for a family that was raising most of its own food.

"My father wasn't a wealthy man by any means," said Alma, "but during the 1930s, when so many people were having a hard time, he let many of his customers charge rather than pay for their fruits and vegetables. He never ended up receiving most of the money that was owed him, but our family was rich in all the ways that really counted."

One day in 1939, a friend yelled over the fence that he wanted Alma to meet someone he knew — a boy named Bud Soost.

"I liked him right away," recalled Alma with a smile, "mostly because he was so full of fun. He was also very athletic and good-looking."

Bud and Alma married in 1941 and like many young couples of her era, were soon separated by World War Two.

"But we wrote to each other every single day," said Alma, smiling again. "Back then, they said we were all supposed to keep up our soldier's morale, and I guess I was pretty determined to do my part."

While Bud was off serving in the European Theater of War, Alma continued to work away at her chosen profession, education.

"I got my education degree from San Jose State College," said Alma, "and my administration degree from the University of the Pacific. Then I began my teaching career at the old Washington Elementary School, and by 1943, I was the principal at West Acres School."

It is as the principal of West Acres School that most West Sacramentans (including me) remember Alma Soost.

"I was there for 35 years," remembered

Alma, "and I enjoyed just about every minute of it. It got a little hectic after the war ended, because everyone starting having babies and the classes slowly got larger and larger, but being a teacher, and later a principal, was exactly what I wanted to do with my life. I was very lucky to get to work with wonderful educators like Jake Misfeldt, Rudy Jakosa, and Marino Pierucci. It was like one big happy family, with everyone pulling together for the benefit of the children."

Alma is remembered by many of her former students as a no-nonsense teacher and administrator.

"Actually," said Alma, laughing, "I'm pretty sure some of them thought I was too strict, but parents trusted me with the welfare of their children, and I took my job very seriously. I would, however, once and for all, like to publicly deny that I used to go around with a ruler in my hand to make sure my students were keeping a proper distance between themselves at school dances. Now, I may have bumped a few heads together if I caught them kissing, but I never used a ruler to make sure they weren't dancing cheek-to-cheek. It must have been someone else."

Alma lost her husband of 45 years in 1986 and that was a very difficult time for her.

"For about three months after Bud's death," admitted Alma, "I really didn't know which way was up and which way was down. He was such a strong man and it simply never occurred to me that he might die before me. But we were able to travel a lot before his illness, to places like Europe and Cuba, and I have so many fond memories of all the wonderful times we spent together."

After weathering some health problems of

'Now, I may have bumped a few heads together if I caught them kissing, but I never used a ruler to make sure they weren't dancing cheek-to-cheek. It must have been someone else. . .'

her own in the early 1990s, Alma is staying as busy and active as she can. She is a member of Soroptimist International of West Sacramento, the Italian Catholic Federation, and the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

"I take my 11 pills every day and just keep on going," said Alma. "I like to play bridge, pinocle, and bingo, and I'm in charge of the ICF bus trip that goes to Reno every month. I also love to read, and I do as much of that as possible. Plus my very active family keeps me busy and I'm thankful for that."

Alma has two daughters, Carla Marquez and Toni Johnson, and four grandchildren.

"Every time I see my doctor," said Alma, "he says 'You're getting up there, Alma', and I guess I am, but all those years working with young boys and girls was very fulfilling, and has helped make my life everything I hoped it would be when I was a young girl growing up in Broderick."

Update: free H1N1 vaccine

Yolo County Health Department officials announced on Monday morning that a free, public vaccination clinic in West Sacramento for the H1N1 ("swine flu") flu virus would be open to the public -- and not just to "priority" groups.

The announcement may have come too late for many locals to respond.

But a County spokesperson told the News-Ledger that Yolo plans another local "open to the public" free shot clinic in mid-January, if new stocks of the vaccine are received as expected.

Meanwhile, West Sacramento residents can attend a free vaccine clinic today from 4:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. at the Winters Community Center, 201 Railroad Avenue, in Winters.

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

Just when the drama around Tiger Woods life was starting to settle down a bit, things are going from bad to worst. A new and serious allegation involving human growth hormones and a Canadian doctor has reared its ugly head, the media outlets are going for the jugular, and Tiger Woods is in their sights.

Dr. Galea, who treated golfer Tiger Woods, swimmer Dara Torres and a few NFL players, is suspected of providing athletes with performance-enhancing drugs, according to a newspaper report. Galea, who acknowledged he has used human growth hormone himself for 10 years, told the New York Times he never gave any athletes HGH, which is banned by the World Anti-Doping Agency.

According to various reports, Tiger Woods is now being linked to a huge steroid scandal that's currently under investigation by the FBI. Canadian doctor Dr. Anthony Galea was found in September carrying human growth hormone (HGH) and Actovegin, which is illegal to use and sell in United States, at the United States-Canada border. He was arrested Oct. 15 in Toronto by Canadian police.

Galea has allegedly developed a blood-spinning technique that helps speed up recovery time after undergoing surgery. Tiger Woods underwent major knee surgery in 2008 and the New York Times says that Dr. Galea visited Tiger Woods' home in Northern Florida at least four times in February and March.

Woods, who has not been seen since November 27th, has decided to take a leave of absence from the golf scene to try and repair the damage to family and reputation has had at least one major sponsor Accenture ($9 million) terminate their endorsement contract. Gatorade, Gillette and AT&T have also pulled back on their marketing efforts.

Kings Korner

The Kings (10-12) are playing an exciting brand of basketball but their success has the Maloofs a little worried at the box office with the average attendance of about 12,000 fans at their 17,317 seat arena. So, to increase and inspired local fans to attend the Kings next home game, management is promoting "Dollar Beer Night" on Wednesday night (7 p.m.) with the Kings hosting the Washington Wizards on the ESPN game of the week.

The Kings, who are desperate to attract fans to the Arco, have offered free dinner buffets prior to two games this season are now offering cold brews and soda for a buck. The Kings were one of the first NBA arenas to offer a designated driver to discourage driving under the influence is now on Mothers Against Drunk Drivers (MADD) radar!

The Kings home attendances problems maybe because they lose on the road. Everybody likes watching a winning team. The Kings have lost six road games while posting a winning record of 9-3 at home. Of course, twenty-five of the 30 NBA teams have better home records than road wins. Only 10 teams have winning records at home with the Boston Celtics leading the way with an 11-1 record. The Kings, who were 6-35 last season on the road, are scoring only 99 points a game on the road and grabbing 40 rebounds but at home they score 110 points and 45 rebounds.

This week the Kings play on Tuesday night in Portland before they come home host the Wizards on Wednesday's $1 Beer Night at the Arco followed by road games to Minnesota (5:00 p.m.-CSN-CA) on Friday and Milwaukee (5:30 p.m.-CSN-CA) on Saturday and Chicago (5:00 p.m.-CSN-CA) on Monday.

NFL Week 15

The Oakland Raiders (4-9) failed at winning their first back-to-back victories of the season losing 34-13 to the Redskins in front of a rained drenched crowd of 40,000 at the Black Hole. It's amazing and hard to believe that the Silver and Black can beat the Steelers in Pittsburgh and then return to their home field and just play awful. The Raiders had 14 penalties tying their season high and the most since 2005 when they had 16 penalties for 169 yards.

Quarterback Bruce Gradkowski played well until he suffered a torn medial collateral ligament in his left knee and partially torn MCL in his right knee and was forced to hand over the quarterback duties to JaMarcus Russell.

The Raiders totaled 188 yards behind Gradkowski, who was sacked twice and fumbled once in the first half. They totaled only 39 with Russell at the helm in the second half and he was sacked six times, fumbled once and threw an interception. It's time to bring in mobile third string quarterback Charlie Frye especially next week when the Raiders (-12) travel to the Mile High City to lace them up against playoff bound Denver.

The 49ers (6-7) kept their playoff hopes alive with an upset 24-9 win over the division leading Cardinals on Monday night but it may have come a week too late. The 49ers really needed to win last week in Seattle but at least there is still hope for Niners fans.

The 49ers defense put a terrible whipping on Kurt Warner and his Cardinals sacking Warner four times and forcing two interceptions and causing five fumbles while Alex Smith and Frank Gore provided just enough offense to set up a critical must win road game next Sunday (10 a.m.-FOX) in Philadelphia.

If the 49ers (+7) can pull off the miracle win in Philly they have a shot at the playoffs because they finish up the season hosting the Lions next Sunday and close out the season in St. Louis.

Aztecs Picks

My dog scratched out four winners last week in the NFL to improve to 37-29-1 but this week Aztecs hair will be standing on edge because in the final three weeks the season some teams are fighting for a playoff spot while a few clubs are thinking about next year's draft order.

This week Aztec is going bowling on Saturday with his cousins, the Fresno Bulldogs (-10) against Wyoming in the Holiday season's first bowl game at the New Mexico Bowl. In the NFL, the Denver Broncos (-12) will corral the Raiders, the Seahawks (-7) will keep Tampa Bay's (1-12) hopes alive for the NFL's first draft pick while Houston (-7) travels to St. Louis to keep the Rams (1-12) in the running for the first pick. On Monday night, the Washington Redskins (+4) will make life miserable for the New York Giants.

Between the Ropes

The 40-year-old former Soviet Union WBC heavyweight champion Oleg Maskaev (36-7, 27 KO's) bid to fight Vitali Klitschko for the World title took an awful detour on Friday night at the Memorial Auditorium when 23-year old New Yorker, Nagy Aguilera, (15-2, 10 KO's) knocked him out 1:54 into the first round.

It was a shocking end for the relocated West

Sacramento resident in his first local appearance and probably eliminated any hopes of another title shot and may end his boxing career. It was Maskaev first loss in three fights since losing the title last year.

Enjoy your day - see ya next week!

RCHS grads help team to 2nd place in NCAA soccer

ALLISON RUVALCABA

LAUREN RUVALCABA

West Sacramento sisters Allison and Lauren Ruvalcaba helped take the soccer squad at Cal State Dominguez Hills into the "final four" of the NCAA Division II soccer playoffs. The team finished the tournament in Tampa, Florida, with second-place honors earlier this month.

Lauren is a 2006 graduate of River City High School, who played two seasons at Cal Poly Pomona before transferring. While at River City High, she was a four-year letter-winner and earned first-team "all league" honors as a junior and senior. She's a midfielder for the CSU Dominguez Hills Broncos.

Allison ("Alli") is a 2007 graduate of RCHS, where she was a starter for her team all four years. She was a team MVP as a junior and senior, and a first-team All-Conference player. She played two years for Cosumnes River College. Now a college junior, she's a goalkeeper at CSUDH.

Calaveras comes from behind to nip RCHS boys basketball squad

By De ja Scott and Jordan Ligons
River City High School Journalism Students

Calaveras High School came to River City to play a preseason varsity basketball game on December 8.

Losing by one point didn't stop the Raider spirit, as the team stayed focus and played hard. RCHS started the game off with a good two point lead, as the Calaveras pushed hard to keep up. The crowd cheered loudly for the Raider team. As the second quarter came along with River City still in the lead, Raider Danny Vargas was injured by one of the Calaveras players. He was scratched above his left eye, and was taken out the game. But that didn't stop the Raiders from playing hard to achieve their goal. Before you knew it, Danny Vargas was back in the game with full energy ready to score.

Half-time was the most interesting part of the game, as the cheerleader's did stunts that made the crowd very worried and scared for them. The cheerleaders did a good performance in the middle of the gym to a master mix of songs by Jim Lofton, the cheerleading coach.

The third quarter started off with Calaveras making a comeback by shooting three-pointers. It went back and forth for awhile with RCHS scoring then Calaveras scoring. A player from River City fouled a jump-shooter who was placed behind the three point line. He missed the shot but got three free throws in return.

In addition, he made two of the three free throws that made the game close. At the start of the fourth quarter, Calaveras came roaring back and got ahead by four points early on. However, RCHS was not far behind; a couple key plays and the game was tied again. Then, it all came down to the last minute of the game—who wanted the victory more?

River City comes down the court, runs a play and misses the shot. Nevertheless, number 45, Mario Morales get the offensive rebound and puts it back in for two points which put River City up by one point. The crowd cheered loudly for the Raiders because we thought they had the win. Yet, the Calaveras Mighty Reds came down and had an entry pass to the post that scored with a layup for two points which now puts them up by one.

After RCHS calls a timeout, they pass the ball into Matthew Scott who plays the CHS defender one-on-one for a missed layup as the buzzer sounds. Calaveras High School wins over the Raiders 62-61. "It was a hard fought game, but we can't take anyone for granted. We always have to play our game and never play to someone else's. Respect all, but fear none," Jalani Davis' thoughts on the preseason loss at home.

GUEST COMMENTARY:

Beginnings: starting families off on the right foot

By Ada Barros-Heiser
Health Educator
County of Yolo

Having children is already a challenge even if you have the advantage of a stable living wage, a good education, and lots of support from friends and family. When complications during pregnancy arise, it can be frightening and stressful, even for the most resourceful of parents. If you have a high-risk baby who arrives much too early or needs to stay in intensive care, even the strongest of parents can crumble.

Imagine being 18, having little to no income, and no family support and going through the same crisis. Imagine being a pregnant woman who can barely read, or can barely cling to sobriety. Unfortunately, so many of these women fall through the cracks in our healthcare system, and many suffer complications in pregnancy that could have been easily prevented or managed. Many babies born to these mothers are high-risk infants, who, if they survive, do not have a very good outlook in life, unless someone, somewhere, intervenes.

At the Yolo County Health Department, a new program aims to help these moms and babies move toward good health during pregnancy and throughout life. Funded in part by local First 5 Yolo Children & Families Commission funds, the Best Beginnings Public Health Nurse Visitation Program is unique in that its curriculum was put together by Yolo County's very own public health nurses. However, like many other successful nurse home visitation programs, it uses strategies proven to improve the well-being of low-income mothers with a high-risk pregnancy and mothers of high-risk infants.

Started in July 2009, the program is currently serving 20 families, and is expected to serve at least 50 families per year. The current eligibility criteria for the program include low-income status, with a high-risk pregnancy, or moms who have a high-risk infant. Pregnancies that are considered high-risk generally involve mothers with the following conditions:

- very young or old
- overweight or underweight
- problems with previous pregnancies
- health conditions such as high blood pressure, diabetes or HIV
- early labor

High-risk infants include premature babies or those who received treatment in the Newborn Intensive Care Unit (NICU).

Current clients of this Yolo County Health Department program include several women with gestational diabetes. These are very high-risk pregnancies and need to be monitored often for the safety of the mother and the survival of the infant. There are also clients who come with pre-existing conditions, such as uncontrolled type 2 diabetes, with risks similar to those with gestational diabetes. There are clients battling to stay sober. Some clients have mental illness and need their medication monitored very closely. Some clients have a history of abuse in their past, which makes it difficult for them to bond with their baby.

With all program participants, Yolo County public health nurses provide on-going support and assistance to help clients adopt healthy behaviors, as well as monitor medications to maintain health during and after their pregnancy. Public health nurses also work on attachment and bonding issues, and help moms know how to read their baby's cues, so the relationship between mother and child is happy and healthy. By doing this, Yolo County Health Department Best Beginnings Public Health Nurse Visitation Program staff are truly helping these babies and families have the best possible beginnings.

PETITIONS WILL BE CIRCULATED IN A FEW DAYS TO SECURE GAS SUPPLY FOR WASHINGTON

PRICE OF GAS PER THOUSAND FEET, TOGETHER WITH MINIMUM RATE FOR METERS AND SERVICE, TO BE REGULATED BY RAILROAD COMMISSION

At the meeting of the Washington Improvement Club last Tuesday evening it was announced by the committee who had gone to interview Superintendent McKillip of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and Captain Baldwin of the gas supply end of the business, that it was impossible for those gentlemen or for the corporation to specify what rate would be charged for gas in Washington, should a supply be extended across the river from Sacramento.

It was on this account that the blank petitions did not specify a price and it was on that account also that the use to which the gas could be made was not specified.

The field is therefore clear for the ladies of the town to circulate the petition to the corporation asking that the supply be extended.

Although the corporation may be desirous of furnishing a supply and although the property owners and residents may be anxious to secure it, there is still the possibility that the investment may not be warranted by the consumption within the town. Nearly all householders who have been interviewed have expressed the desire of getting the supply and the property owners are extremely anxious to secure it, especially those who have houses for renting purposes.

During the summer months, ladies who do their own cooking are forced to use either wood or gasoline stoves. To the gasoline stove there is always attached a certain amount of risk, together with an increased rate of insurance and to the wood stove there is attached the great heat which is almost unbearable during the summer months.

As a matter of fact, it is felt that a gas supply for Washington would be one of the greatest helps to improve conditions and to induce more people to build their homes within the town limits.

The ladies of the club appreciate this and aided by a committee of five from the Parent-Teachers' Association, the circulation of the petitions will be started early next week.

When the signatures of the householders are obtained, indicating a willingness to secure a supply, regular blanks will be circulated by employees of the company and when totalled will show the necessity for a supply.

Should it come about that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company may refuse a gas supply, an appeal may subsequently be made to the Sacramento Gas Company otherwise known as the natural gas corporation.

In inquiring into the matter of gas prices, The Independent ascertained that the rate in Woodland is 75c for the first 400 cubic feet; $1.60 per thousand cubic feet for the next 4200 cubic feet; $1.20 per thousand cubic feet for the next 800 cubic feet, and 80c per thousand cubic feet for all over 10,000 cubic feet.

The rate for Sacramento is 75c for the first 600 cubic feet or less; $1.20 per thousand cubic feet for the next 2400 cubic feet, and $1 per thousand cubic feet for the next 7,000 cubic feet.

The ladies of the Improvement Club and of the Parent-Teachers' Association will district the town in their work of canvassing, so that every home and every housewife may sign the petition for a supply of gas. These ladies are five from the Improvement Club, Mrs. J. McNevin, Mrs. Belle Parkinson, Mrs. A. M. Cameron, Mrs. W. Wilson and Mrs. E. Curry. Those from the Parent-Teachers' Association are Mrs. Sid Rickard, Mrs. A. Dassonville, Mrs. J. Manchester, Mrs. P. A. Hart and Mrs. J. Clifton.

WASHINGTON IS BECOMING A SITE FOR MOVING PICTURE PLOTS

Yesterday members of the World Scenic Film Company of Los Angeles were operating in Washington attracted thereto by some of the unique scenic effects to be found in this locality.

W. S. Jeffreys and wife were the principals yesterday afternoon near the S. P. bridge, that massive structure, and the largest bridge west of Chicago.

Mr. Jeffreys explained that scenes in and around Los Angeles are so worn in film effects they cannot be taken any more and the moving picture corporations are looking elsewhere for material.

"Life's Other Side" is the picture to be filmed or partly filmed in Washington. It will be ready in about three months and will be shown in the theaters of Sacramento.

The S. P. bridge and the magnificent shade on the streets in Washington took the eye of the proprietors of the film, with the result that a troupe was sent here to film the scenes.

Needless to say the antics of the principal actress, Mrs. W. S. Jeffreys, were viewed with a great deal of interest by the residents and children of Washington.

TOBACCO BEING GROWN BY MERKLEY BROS.

Just north of Washington and immediately inside the river levee, ten acres of tobacco of the Turkish variety, were planted during the past week by Merkley Bros.

Experts have pronounced the land eminently suitable for the production of tobacco and with proper care and cultivation great returns are expected.

Last year land near Esparto produced in tobacco crops a net revenue of over $800 per acre.

The Merkley boys have now planted 75 acres for the production of radish seed, a demand never experienced before in this locality. A magnificent price has been offered for this seed by Eastern concerns who look to this section of the State for the seed that was formerly imported from Germany.

MRS. MCCUSTON ON VACATION

Last Monday Mrs. J. W. McCustion went to San Francisco and Santa Cruz for a two-weeks' vacation. She will also visit several of the other sea coast towns before returning to her home in Sacramento.

HEARTY RECEPTION TENDERED SOLDIERS OF WASHINGTON RETURNED FROM THE FRONT

Last Friday evening in the public school building of Washington the soldier boys returned from the front or now visiting here on furlough were tendered the heartiest reception ever given to any men in the community.

And the boys appreciated not alone the good things tendered them on that occasion but the magnificent spirit shown by the people in the great outpouring that filled the school building to capacity.

Nearly every family in town was present, not in one and two members but in several. Young and old alike were there to pay tribute to the boys who volunteered to defend their country or who were called in the draft to forfeit their lives for liberty and freedom and happiness.

An enjoyable feast was spread for the young men which they thoroughly enjoyed and following them every person present in the auditorium partook of the good things provided for the occasion.

The building was decorated appropriately with the national colors and the Washington Boys' Band rendered music for the evening, both before the exercises and at the dance which followed.

Judge W. A. Anderson of Woodland was the orator of the evening and complimented highly the boys who had voluntarily offered their lives in the cause of liberty.

His talk was fluent and inspiring and made those young men feel proud of themselves for the part they had taken and to which they can point during the remainder of their lives with pride, and to which their children and their children's children can also point in the years to come.

Davis Barry gave a short description of his experiences both in camp life, in crossing the ocean and in the strenuous battles of the Argonne, St. Mihiel and subsequently in a camp in Germany with the Army of Occupation.

"All games, sports, unnecessary commercialized entertainment, Sunday newspapers, Sunday base ball and dancing at all time" have been placed under the ban by the Presbyterian Synod now convened at St. Louis.

That is nothing. The writer remembers the time when it was a jail offense to whistle on Sunday in Glasgow, Scotland.

But it will all come out in the wash.

There is no objection on the part of the Puritans to that part of President Wilson's message recommending that special taxes on candy, cameras, thermos bottles and ice cream cones be cancelled.

But there is objection to the lifting of the ban on beers and wines. "Treat us all alike."

A few days ago, Redding decided that the Fourth of July would not be celebrated because Prohibition seemed imminent.

Since Woodrow Wilson changed his mind, Redding has also changed its mind and has resolved to celebrate in great style.

Funny what a damper Prohibition is to any enjoyment.

A saloonman of Sacramento has been given a verdict against a colored man who claimed damages for having been refused a drink on account of his color.

The jury stood 10 to 2 in favor of the saloonman, because the colored man was drunk when he was refused.

Here is a chance for the reformers.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN WILL DANCE TO RAISE FUNDS ON JUNE 21ST

It has been decided by the Volunteer Firemen of Washington to give a dance on Saturday evening, June 21st, in the Town Hall for the purpose of raising funds to help any of the boys who may be injured while fighting fires.

The Volunteer Department at Washington has picked up new life and is prepared as an organization to defend the property of all the owners of the town, as well as their own homes.

These boys need encouragement and since they risk their lives whenever called on they should receive that encouragement from those who are so deeply interested in the organization.

In addition, they materially hold down the insurance rates through the very fact of their existence and property owners should appreciate this fact.

A WHOLE-SOULLED WOMAN OF THE WORLD IS AT REST

Last Monday the earthly remains of Mrs. Catherine Devine were buried in Sacramento.

Mrs. Devine was popularly known as "Mother" Devine because of the whole hearted and whole-souled sympathy she extended to many who were repentant of indiscretions.

Located near Sacramento at the 3-Mile House during the past eleven years, she with her husband conducted the resort known as "Devine's," where men and women enjoyed themselves in dancing.

Mrs. Devine was indisposed only during a period of two weeks while her ailment was not considered serious until twenty-four hours before her death. The cause of her demise was diabetes.

To mourn her she leaves her husband, Joseph M. J. Devine; two children, Mrs. Albert Nelson of San Jose and Charles E. Callahan of Sacramento. She was a sister of C. H. McCarthy of San Francisco and Mrs. Charles Dorsay of Sacramento.

CEBRIAN HOLDINGS ARE BEING DEVELOPED NEAR LAKE WASHINGTON

Work has started on the holdings of J. C. Cebrian of San Francisco who lately purchased 585 acres of land in West Sacramento to develop the property for stock raising.

Mr. Pollock has been named Superintendent by Mr. Cebrian and is engaged in clearing some land at the present time in the vicinity of Lake Washington near the lower end of the lake. This land will be used for stock raising purposes and an immense investment is to be made by the owner in improvements.

DR. J. A. MCKEE GOES TO SAN FRANCISCO

For the purpose of receiving special treatment for his ailment, Dr. J. A. McKee has gone to San Francisco to be absent for several months.

During many years, Dr. McKee has been enjoying a remunerative practice in Sacramento but some time ago suffered a light stroke of paralysis.

The center of something

The city continues to evolve.

This happens in fits and starts. Sometimes, like now, change just creeps along under your nose until one day you look up and take notice that things are different. Take, for example, the "civic center" area on West Capitol Avenue east of Jefferson.

The new city hall is by now "broken in." Facing it across the street is the new local branch of Sacramento City College, due to open up for its first students next month (can you believe that?). Next door to the college is the new city community center building, well underway. And behind those two structures is the sunny and roomy new branch of the county library system. The architectural tone for all these buildings was set by the city hall building: simple boxes and gentle curves, light earth tones and steel accents. The college, community center and city hall are three stories high.

Stand among the buildings, or view them from behind the library, and you'll feel something new for West Sacramento: you'll feel that you're among the respectably tall buildings of an actual city center. The buildings won't have the height or mass of those starting to spring up along the riverfront. But on West Capitol, the "little" tall buildings have now banded together in enough numbers that the whole is more than the sum of the parts. They've created a "place."

On a recent Friday afternoon, a caller contacted the News-Ledger to report finding a "Shih Tzu" dog, and placed a "lost dog" ad for it.

A mere thirteen minutes later, a second reader emailed an ad for a lost dog. Also, as you might have guessed, the lost dog was also a Shih Tzu. The family dog had been for several days already, said the email, and a "little girl would like him home before Christmas."

A few minutes after that, the two advertisers were put in touch with each other. Yes, they were talking about the same dog. And yes, that lucky Shih Tzu made it home well before Christmas.

Better choices will reduce holiday waste

From Waste Management, Inc.

This holiday season, about one million extra tons of trash will be generated between Thanksgiving and New Year's Day. During the Christmas season alone, it's estimated that Californians will generate an extra three to ten bags of trash per household. This holiday season, Waste Management is encouraging everyone to "Think Green" by reducing the amount of trash they send to our landfills.

In order to help you reduce your impact on the environment this holiday season, the EPA has provided the following tips to help minimize extra waste and still maximize holiday cheer:

- Avoid using disposable dishes and utensils when entertaining friends and family, and if you must use them, buy them made from recycled or compostable material.
- Remember to place easily identifiable recycling and compost containers at your celebration so guests can recycle soda cans, bottles,

Holiday seasons generates an extra three to ten bags of garbage per household in California and paper products, and compost food scraps.

- Send e-invitations for all holiday celebrations – saving paper, time and postage.

Thousands of paper and plastic shopping bags end up in landfills every year. Tell store clerks you don't need a bag for small or oversized purchases. Better yet – bring your own reusable bag!

- Extend the useful life of gifts:

Before tossing the old to make room for the new – check to see if you can donate it, reuse it, or recycle it.

- Wrap your presents with reusable bags, or newspaper instead of purchasing wrapping paper.
- Travel efficiently: Map your shopping route to make a number of stops in one trip. Take public transportation, or hitch a ride with a friend or family member.

When decorating, use Energy Star energy efficient lighting such as LED outdoor holiday lights, which require 1/50th of the electricity of conventional lights and last 20-30 years. Put lights on a timer or turn them on only when someone's home.

So, make sure to "Think Green" this holiday season, you can save time and money, as well as reduce your impact on the environment.

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"The Waltons Seasons 1 and 2"

Boxed Set — Y'know, as much as I love sci-fi, horror and cheesy action flicks, I'm still a sucker for great television, and in 1971 one of the best-written, superbly acted television programs of the decade debuted. "The Waltons" was and is one of my all-time favorite shows. Set during the Depression, the show told over nine seasons is the story of an extended family struggling to survive that era. Its recurring themes of honesty, self-sacrifice and hard work were — and are — the kinds of lessons that we simply don't see enough of on television. Although the series has been released before, this new boxed set collects the first two seasons at a discounted price of $19.99 — quite a bargain in these tough economic times.

"Paranormal Activity" — This is one of those horror movies that you will either love or hate with a passion. Here's the litmus test: If you thought "The Blair Witch Project" was an awesome, innovative film, you will love the heck out of "Paranormal Activity," a movie about a newlywed couple who videotape the ghosts haunting their house. Conversely, if you thought "Blair Witch" was a boring, pretentious student film and that everyone involved with the production should've been grounded up and fed to feral pigs ... well, you get the idea. In case you're wondering where I stand: "Bon appétit, Porky" should pretty much sum it up.

Nightlight: A Parody
By the Harvard Lampoon
(Vintage, $13.95)

Reviewed by Katherine B. Olson

"Nightlight," written by the humorists at the Harvard Lampoon, is the pitch-perfect parody for readers who love, hate or just haven't yet been bitten by the runaway hit vampire book series, "Twilight." A hysterical sendup of the genre and its rabid fans, "Nightlight" chronicles vampire-obsessed protagonist Belle Goose and her wild hunt for a blood-sucking boyfriend.

Moving to Switchblade, Ore., with little more than a hyperactive imagination, two left feet and a U-Haul truck, deluded Belle soon meets her match in Edward Mullen, a computer geek and anxiety-pill popping loner who, by his own admission, is too weak to lift even a container of apple juice out of the fridge "with no less

DOG OF THE WEEK

"Jennifer's Body" — One of the worst films of 2009. It's not even in the "so bad it's good" department. Megan Fox stars as a small-town cheerleader who longs to leave her hometown and become famous. When she hooks up with an indie band, she thinks she's found her ticket to fame. Little does she know that the only reason they want her is so they can have a virgin sacrifice to seal a deal with El Diablo. Sadly, li'l Jen lied to them, and she comes back from the dead and starts killing boys in her school. What makes this film so horrible is the cringe-worthy dialogue by "Juno's" Diablo Cody and the lifeless acting by everyone. Avoid this film like you would, well, any movie with Megan Fox or Diablo Cody's participation. Duh.

than two hands." Despite countless signs pointing to the contrary, Belle is convinced that Edward is her dream bloodsucker. She begins to date him and to unravel his many secrets (the first and most disturbing of which is that he is not a vampire, but an average, nerdy high schooler!).

Harvard's humor and parody magazine has a history of spoofing magazines and books, from "Life" and "Esquire" to "The Lord of the Rings," which the Lampoon rewrote 40 years ago as "Bored of the Rings." "Nightlight" is the first book to be released by the Lampoon's editors since then, and it delivers: Poking fun at the teenage angst and heartbreak that define the original series, "Nightlight's" heroine offers absurd observations similar to those found in the original: "When guys gnash their teeth and knit their brows in a broody, furious expression, it means that they have found their soul mate."

A parody on a scale that hasn't been seen since Gene Wilder's movie spoof "Young Frankenstein," "Nightlight" combines romance, danger, insufficient parental guardianship, creepy stalkerlike behavior and a vampire prince in the ultimate gag gift for vampire and satire aficionados everywhere.

Ring In the New Year With Eggnog

Eggnog has been prepared and served during the holidays for hundreds of years. Upper-class Europeans served the drink to their holiday guests in the form of a hot milk punch combined with liquor, usually wine or brandy. The traditional recipe traveled from Europe to America with the English colonists during the 18th century. President George Washington was very fond of eggnog.

While dairy products were plentiful in America, wine and brandy were heavily taxed. Since rum, which was also called grog, was inexpensive, it became the traditional addition to eggnog. The name eggnog is thought to be a derivative of egg and grog.

While it was once believed that adding alcohol to eggnog inhibits or destroys bacterial growth, including salmonella, there really is no scientific data to support this claim. One of the best ways to ensure the safety and quality of your eggnog is to cook the ingredients and to use the best eggs.

Eggland's Best has one of the most comprehensive and strict quality-assurance programs in the industry. Its state-of-the-art laboratory conducts more than 30,000 tests each year to ensure the superiority of the eggs it distributes. Using Eggland's Best Eggs also will make your eggnog more nutritious because they have 25 percent less saturated fat, 19 percent less cholesterol, three times more Omega 3, and 10 times more vitamin E than regular eggs. Now they contain even more vitamin A, B2, B12 and D, so Eggland's Best just got better!

Times have changed, and eggnog has conformed to modern tastes. You can find recipes for this holiday drink with and without alcohol, and commercially prepared recipes that use skimmed, low-fat or soy milk. There are even brands of eggnog especially for vegans and for those who are lactose intolerant. While the recipes for this delicious drink vary, it's still traditionally served during the winter as a way to celebrate the holidays and ring in the New Year.

EASY EGGNOG

This easy eggnog recipe cooks the eggs and milk in the microwave. You might want to make a double batch and use any extra eggnog as a flavoring for baked goods or coffee. All microwave cooking times are based on a full power output of 600 to 700 watts. For a lower wattage oven, allow more cooking time.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF MARTHA LOUISE CLAUS CASE NUMBER PB09-204

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of MARTHA LOUISE CLAUS: A Petition for Probate has been filed by LAURA HAUSHER in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

The Petition for Probate requests that Laura Hausherr be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests decedents will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows: Jan. 27, 2010, at 9:00 a.m., in Dept. 15, Superior Court of California, County of Yolo, 1100 Main St., Ste. 300, Woodland CA 95695.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk.

neighborhood and welcome visitors with some kind of monument or artwork.

Land for this monument was donated by developer John Leonard, who owns the surrounding property.

Denise Seals is one member of the city's "Arts, Culture & Historic Preservation Commission." She said she, too, is glad the monument is now in place.

"The goal is to establish gateways into the community," said Seals. "This came together in collaboration with the property owner there. It was promised to the neighborhood years ago, and it was wonderful to see it come to fruition."

Southport burglar sentenced; West Sac child molester convicted

A man who burglarized three Southport homes on June 4 — and scuffled with a family inside one house on Poppy Street — has been sentenced by Yolo County Superior Court Judge Thomas Warriner.

Judge Warriner gave 21-year old Tyler Hutchinson a sentence of six years, eight months in state prison, said the Yolo County District Attorney's office. Because one of the homes burglarized by Hutchinson was occupied, he will be required to serve a minimum of 85 percent of the sentence, instead of the 50 percent otherwise required.

The office of D.A. Jeff Reisig also announced the conviction in a case of child molestation.

West Sacramentan Louis Charles Romano, 63, was convicted of sexual assault charges against the 15-year old daughter of a family friend. The same jury was unable to reach a verdict concerning charges that he molested the ten-year old sister of the victim as well.

Police from both Sacramento and West Sacramento investigated the case.

Romano will be sentenced next month by Judge David Rosenberg.
